

Campus and College Life

The College is situated at Campus Circuit North, close to a cluster of new developments (Area 39) that includes postgraduate research and hostel facilities. The College buildings blend in with the lush, green surroundings. In addition to undergraduate living quarters, the buildings also house dining and amenity facilities for the entire College membership, with purpose-built space for tutorials, seminars and other collegiate activities.

College Vision

INTIMATE

The College is small and has developed into a closely knit collegiate community.

INTERNATIONAL

Members of the College are drawn from a variety of backgrounds: Hong Kong, the rest of China and beyond. Students will experience cultural diversity first hand and develop cultural sensitivity, as well as a global outlook.

INTELLECTUAL

The community of scholars will approach learning and life in an intellectual way, in a spirit of curiosity and enquiry.

INVOLVED

Knowledge will be treasured not only for its own sake, but as the basis for moral action. Members will be engaged and involved with the wider community in a spirit of generosity towards others, through service and other contributions.

Professor WONG Suk Ying Master

As Master of CW Chu College, I am privileged to have witnessed the remarkable development and milestones achieved by the College since its founding. Over the years, the College has established a unique identity rooted in its dedication to nurturing students' personal growth, integrity, and sense of responsibility. Together with my colleagues, I remain steadfast in upholding the vision and values championed by the late Dr CW Chu. We are committed to inspiring our students to use their knowledge and talents in service of society, fostering a community that exemplifies the ideals of leadership, compassion, and excellence.

“

Equally important as being engaged interpersonally is the ability to be reflective at the intellectual level. At the College, we endeavour to inspire students to go beyond their immediate professional milieu and to be creative with coming up with novel ideas and solutions. To achieve these goals, we host sharing sessions where people from different backgrounds meet and exchange views (in various form, such as night talks, workshops, festive celebrations, and casual meetups); we explore seemingly simple 'questions' we face on a daily basis alongside discussions of a higher order, and analyse and discover the many facets of an issue however common and mundane at first glance that prompt our imagination and investigative appetite.

Professor Billy NG Warden

It is my great pleasure to welcome you to CW Chu College. University life is about more than gaining knowledge; it is about becoming intellectually curious, resilient, compassionate, and socially responsible. At CW Chu College, we provide a close-knit residential community where students can learn, live, and grow together.

As the next Warden, I believe hostel life is central to this journey. A hostel is more than accommodation — it is a home, a learning space, and a supportive community built on respect, care, and trust. Through shared experiences, mentorship, and daily interactions, students develop confidence, independence, friendships and responsibility. Our small community is one of our greatest strengths. Every student is known, supported, and encouraged to contribute. I warmly invite you to join and grow with us at CW Chu College.

College life is a transformative journey beyond academic study, offering seminars, cultural events, and activities that broaden horizons and foster critical thinking. You will grow with supportive teachers, mentors, and peers throughout this journey. Equally important is cultivating empathy and mindful engagement with the world around you. Listen sincerely, offer kindness, and stay aware of people and nature. I encourage you to embrace challenges with curiosity and courage, step beyond comfort zones, and balance independence with teamwork. Our support team will always assist you. May CW Chu College become your home at The Chinese University of Hong Kong, where you can embark on a rich, meaningful, and unforgettable university journey. Be a true person and find your true self here.
